We have the winners.

The Era/The Banner gave away three pairs of tickets to Friday's Canadian Women's Hockey League game between the Burlington Barracudas and Brampton Thunder.

The game is part of the RBC Hockey Helps the Homeless event at the Magna Centre in Newmarket, of which The Era/The Banner is a sponsor.

We asked you to tell us which former Toronto Maple Leaf founded a restaurant famous for its coffee and doughnuts.

Everyone who answered Tim Horton by noon Tuesday was entered into a draw for the tickets.

As the first name drawn, Sheena Parsons also received a copy of Toronto Maple Leafs Puzzle Book.

The other winners were Kim Conley and Deanne Grodzinski.

Thanks to everyone who participated in the contest.

Proceeds from RBC Hockey Helps the Homeless, which also includes a hockey tournament, will go to Belinda's Place, Pathways, Habitat for Humanity, Light Patrol, Snug as a Bug, Gateway and Inn from the Cold.

The CWHL game starts at 7:30 p.m.
